

GoIndustry DoveBid Corporate Overview

Surplus Asset Management Specialists

Multi-national corporations, government organizations, and small / medium business enterprises are confronted by challenges across their business spectrum. They are aggressively looking to improve bottom line operations and implement cost saving policies, or combinations of these initiatives. A critical but untapped source of revenue and cost-savings are the redeployment and sales of non-productive surplus assets. While most companies place great focus on their supply chain management, until recently little attention has been given to the management of surplus, non-productive assets.

GoIndustry DoveBid is the global industry leader in surplus asset management, sales and valuations; that ultimately provides a long term, strategic approach to asset recovery services. By taking a proactive approach in providing customizable solutions, clients now have an ongoing asset management process to meet their current needs and adjust for future business climates. GoIndustry DoveBid brings the right people, processes, and the latest technology to efficiently and accurately manage your capital assets.

GoIndustry DoveBid applies the fundamental principles and discipline of supply chain management to the surplus asset lifecycle, and investment recovery programs.
